MARCHING THROUGH A SLIGHTER HOUSE.
Louisville Courier-Journal.—There is not the smallest pretext for haste in the matter of the Federal election laws.

WILLING TO COMPROMISE.
Kansas City Journal.—The Southern War claimant is for the old flag and an appropriation, and on a pinch he would dispense with the flag.

SOUND ADVICE.
Troy Press.—Don't cultivate a thirst that will create a vacancy in your pocket while distending your stomach into bay window-like proportions.

DEMOCRATIC HARMONY.
Rochester Herald.—The machine has been whipped, and it will be whipped if it again involves the judgment of the Democratic voters of Monroe county.

DEMOCRACY.
Kansas City Journal.—I am a Democrat, but I mean anything that does except that the man who utters it is solid for office and down on the old soldiers.

REMEMBER.
Philadelphia Press.—If Benjamin Harrison had been run for President, the country would not have had the present panic. That is not all. The panic being here because of "the change," if it had been possible to "change" back at once and to place immediately in the Presidential chair Benjamin Harrison, or any Republican of his quality and views, the panic would have been stayed, and that is not all. The panic being on, if Grover Cleveland's honest purpose to do the right thing on the silver issue had been joined with a clearer grasp of what to do and how to do it, the panic would not have been stayed, but it would have been greatly mitigated. A sound heart and a firm will are much in such a crisis; but a sound heart and a firm will with a sure head and an unerring hand are much more.

HUFF & ENDS, the enterprising proprietors of the meat market at Second and Commerce streets, Fifth Ward, not only keep the finest of fresh meats, but they receive daily by express the choicest brands of Baltimore sausage. We know where we speak when we say that their leading brand is not equal to any other concern in this city. Give them a trial.

The Louisville City Council adopted a resolution empowering the Mayor to purchase, at the expense of the city, return rail tickets for the men who went there to accept places in the L. & N. shops and carry out their positions to join the strikers.

THERE seems to be little prospect of the defunct Louisville Depot Bank again opening its doors for business, though that will have no effect upon the general business of the city. Being out of the Clearing-house Association, the bank was at a disadvantage and was practically helpless when the storm came.

WILLIAM WILCOX, a prominent citizen of Campbellville, was arrested there on the charge of assaulting Mary Saunders, an idiot. Wilcox waived an examination and was admitted to bail in $1000. His bondsmen supplied rendered him to the court and in an unguarded moment Wilcox made good his escape, and all efforts to capture him have proved futile.

It doesn't appear very reasonable that so many of the railroads are losing money when their passenger traffic is heavier than ever before, the train running in from two to four sections, and the freight traffic not far below the average. Still, in the face of this evidence of prosperity, they have laid off hundreds of men and have cut the wages of those retained.

AMONG the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than the severe slappings. He had been stopping at the Auditorium. Dr. Darts and checks in his clothes corroborated his identity and his family were notified.

A GOOD Thing to Keep at Hand.
From The Ky. (Kansan) Chief.—Some years ago we were very much subject to several spells of cholera morbus, and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually precede this ailment, such as sickness at the stomach, diarrhea, etc., we become scarce. We have found Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy very reliable. It has cured us in one or two cases, and always kept it about. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our readers know what a valuable thing it is to keep handy in the house. For sale by Power & Reynolds.

Hill Can't Live.
The death of Charles Hill, who was injured at the pumping-station of the water-works, is expected at any moment.

Yesterday afternoon the mangled leg was amputated by Drs. Phillips, Adamson and Cartmel. As Hill had been sick since May with fever and had been every day in the hospital, but the doctor finally told me there was no hope, and I was very much distressed. I was to make him comfortable until the end. At this point I decided to give him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It seemed to be performing all the miracles for others. It was given in small increments, and the fever began to decrease from the first dose, and a gradual improvement was noticed. The fever, in three days he was sitting up and in a week he was walking. He had been losing his strength very fast. I conscientiously believe he saved his life by this. Respectfully yours, FRANK SEAGRAM, 100 N. 10th St., St. Louis, Mo.

THE WATER SUPPLY.
The Auxiliary of Work, But the Best of the Pumps Idle.

It was a bad break.

And it was not the first one that has occurred in the same place.

An inch-and-a-quarter thickness of cast iron pipe literally torn to shreds and scattered to the four winds by the immense pressure.

Then why not have this particular connection made of wrought iron, so that there will be no repetition of this kind of disaster at the past forty-eight hours?

Friday the large "Y" that connects the two pumping mains with the influent pipe broke into fragments a few yards South of the Pump-house, and the water supply of the city was suddenly crippled.

A duplication of the piece was ordered, but the wrong thing was sent by the founders.

Saturday morning an attempt was made to supply the city by means of an auxiliary pump, and for a time this gave promise of success.

The open end of the influent pipe had been closed by a reducer and street cap, and all seemed to be going well until some one ordered the braces which held the plug in place knocked away—for the purpose it is said of making the fastening more secure, when to a practical eye it was already so secure that no force that could have been put on it could have forced it out.

And so the act of knocking away these braces resulted in a deplorable tragedy, that will probably cost a human life and the Water Company a robust suit for damages.

This unexpected turn in affairs dispelled all hope of getting water Saturday, and it was given by what that might be several days before the city would be supplied.

The work of repairing the new break was prosecuted, however, and toward the middle of yesterday afternoon the auxiliary was again started, and by 6 o'clock there was enough water forced into the mains to permit the electric plant and street cap to resume their normal duty for private use.

If the auxiliary holds out, we can get along comfortably well for a few days, when it is expected that the main pumps will be started up. It is a queer rule which permits the Water Company to shut off its supply without a word of warning to consumers, especially to steam plants, who are left to their boiler supply in great distress.

It is extremely hazardous, and THE LEADER would like to know under what statute the Water Company claims immunity for thus endangering life and property.

And what is the result of all this when a Judge and Jury will determine this question.

Meantime, the matter of our future water supply should be looked into.

The reservoirs are not large enough at best, for they hold only 2,500,000 gallons, which is a little over five days' supply.

When they were built, it was not expected that they would be so soon consumed.
